DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 1-9 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Kewin (U.S. Patent No. 4,874,139) in view of Taylor et al (U.S. Patent No. 1,716,249).

With respect to Claims 1-6, Kewin, Figures 1-2, teaches a paper roll apparatus comprising a paper-winding core 12 comprising a paper-winding region. Taylor et al, Figures 1-8, teach a pair of paper retention caps 13 each comprising a securing lip for securing side ends of a paper roll wound about said paper winding region; at least one of said paper retention caps slides over an outer end of said paper winding core; at least one of said paper retention caps slides over an outer end of said paper winding core and is retained by said paper winding core with its securing lip securing said side ends of said paper roll; said paper roll wound around said paper winding region, with said side ends of said paper roll secured by said securing lips. It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art to provide Kewin with a pair of retention caps, as taught by Taylor et al, for the purpose of protecting the rolls while they are being transported thereby minimizing chaffing.

Art Unit: 3654

With respect to Claims 7-9, the method described in these claims would inherently result from the use of paper roll apparatus of Kewin in view of Taylor et al as advanced above.

Conclusion

The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure.
